Greetings, Byron Center Community!

If you are a student or a parent in the school district, you couldn't miss that March was Reading Month. Hundreds of students and staff celebrated reading with dress-up days, special activities, guest readers, and more! From the youngest group in our early childhood programs to our most experienced staff members, everyone was able to experience the joy of reading!

Nickels celebrated the month with "Surf's Up! Catch the Title Wave," while Marshall enjoyed their theme of "Camp Out with a Good Book!" West Middle School planned a book design contest, a book review challenge, with many more engaging events. All of the schools found ways to make reading and learning fun!

We celebrate reading month to have fun with reading and encourage students to become lifelong readers. Reading is beneficial for learning information, and it also helps increase creativity, empathy, memory, school performance, vocabulary, math skills, and even happiness!

We hope that everyone in our community will make reading a vital part of their life. If you are a parent, we encourage you to keep your kids reading. Life is busy. Distractions are real. Like any other discipline, it takes time to build up reading stamina. We hope that our children learn to love reading to help them become lifelong learners. Your children will become excited about reading if you're enthusiastic about it. Enthusiasm is contagious!

I hope you enjoy our photo gallery in this special March Reading Month edition of the BConnection. As Dr. Seuss says, "The more you read, the more things you will know. The more that you learn, the more places you'll go." I am thankful for our partnership with families; together, we are BC strong!

ELA 12 took a novel approach to Reading Month by exploring how young adults interact with modern text. In this case, they used literary nonfiction--in a podcast--to analyze and evaluate information presented on an ongoing court case. A Mock Trial was the final push to sharpen their verbal argumentative skills as each side presented evidence, examined witnesses, and fought for their desired verdict.

Our Early Childhood Centers understand the importance of early reading!
